Create a news article or team event

1

- Process is similar for news articles and events
- News articles appear on your team's home page and news page
- Events will appear on your schedule
- If the whole team is on the email subscription list, notification is easy! (see next page for more on this)

2

The screenshot shows the "Create News Article" form. It includes a "Title" field with "Welcome!" entered. The "Date" is set to "Oct 10 2007". The "Article Summary for Front Page" field contains "Looks like we're in for a great season this year!". There is a "Photo Upload" field with a "Browse..." button. The "Photo Caption" field is empty. The "Description" field has a rich text editor toolbar and contains "Looks like we're in for a great season this year! (Longer version of article appears here...)".

- Add as much or as little information as you want to the roster (there's a fair bit more than is shown here).
- If you don't want names to appear, you can use initials or "unknown" in the first and last name fields. This way, you can still record player stats (using the jersey number as the player identifier).
- Most of the information on this form cannot be viewed by anyone unless they have an account with update privileges for your team.
- Date of Birth defaults to the current date.
- Player and parent email addresses, if entered, can be used for email notifications (as an alternative to the subscriber list).
- When you're don't entering information, scroll down to the bottom and click "Create Player".
- Examples of the roster and profile are shown on the next page.
- A list of the players you've entered appears on the right-hand side. Click "edit" to change any information, or "delete" to remove the player.
